

GENDER PAY GAP STATEMENT
AS AT APRIL 2022

Introduction

Glasgow Life is a charitable organisation. Our mission is to inspire the city’s citizens and visitors to lead richer and more active lives through culture, sport and learning.

As an employer, we are required by law to carry out Gender Pay Reporting under the Equality Act 2010 (Gender Pay Gap Information) Regulations 2017. We must report to the Government Equalities Office within one calendar year of April 5th and publish our results on our company website.

The gender pay gap exercise involves carrying out six calculations that measure the difference in the hourly pay of all men and women in an organisation, and is expressed as a percentage of male employees’ hourly pay. It is reported on a mean and median basis.

Glasgow Life has undertaken this exercise using an accumulation of Human Resource, Payroll and Finance records and by adhering to all HMRC specific guidelines, accessible here.

The exercise does not involve the disclosing of any individual’s personal earnings data but instead, considers hourly rates of pay over a defined pay period.

Findings

As at 5th April 2022, Glasgow Life had 2,363 full pay relevant employees. This included 2,191 contracted employees and 172 self-employed/freelance employees. 157 employees were identified as non-pay relevant and were therefore excluded from the calculations as they did not receive a ‘normal’ pay during the relevant pay period, as per Gender Pay Gap guidelines.

The mean and median hourly pay and bonus gaps between men and women are expressed as a percentage difference to the men’s pay and bonus values; a positive value therefore indicates a gap in favour of men and a negative value in favour of women.

Mean gender pay gap using hourly pay: - 9.6%

We added together all the hourly pay rates that women received, divided by the number of women in our workforce. We then repeated the same calculation for men. The difference between these figures is our mean gender pay gap.

Median gender pay gap using hourly pay: - 5.0%

We ranked all our people by their hourly pay. We then compared what the woman in the middle of the female pay range received with what the man in the middle of the male pay range received. The difference between these figures is our median gender pay gap.

Percentage of men and women in each hourly pay quarter:

	Male	Female
Lower Quartile	48.22%	51.78%
Lower Middle Quartile	50.59%	49.41%
Upper Middle Quartile	48.22%	51.78%
Upper Quartile	33.39%	66.61%

Percentage of men and women who received bonus pay:

No bonus pay has been awarded within Glasgow Life

Mean and Median gender pay gap using bonus pay:

No bonus pay has been awarded within Glasgow Life

Commitments

Glasgow Life will:

- monitor and reduce the pay gap wherever possible, ensuring that women and men receive equal pay for work of equal value.
- analyse its data, including year-on-year variances, and continue to take actions to address and narrow its pay gap
- produce and analyse specific gender pay information in relation to (i) its contracted staff and (ii) its freelance/self-employed workers
- produce gender-specific occupational segregation information to assess the levels of gender equality in the workplace, understanding the balance of male and female employees within its different pay grades and business areas of the company.
- produce and publishing its gender pay gap data in infographic format to aid both understanding and accessibility.
- review and progress gender equality in its workplace
- piloting alternative methods of attraction to reach diverse pools of candidates
- undertake positive action in relation to the target and recruitment of under-represented groups
- strive to employ and retain a diverse workforce, publishing its workforce profile data annually on the company's website read here
- promote equality of opportunity in its employment practices.
- ensure employment policies are fair and equitable
- review existing equalities related learning opportunities
- undertake equality impact assessment activity as required
- develop content, in partnership with Marketing Dept, showcasing Glasgow Life as a diverse employer of choice.
